Academic Projects

-  PID CONTROL OF PARABOLIC DISH FOR CONCENTRATED SOLAR ENERGY GENERATION 2020

In this project, a parabolic dish is designed to achieve the task. The dish is made of mirrors that the sunlight strikes the dish and is reflected in a focal point, which is the receiver in the design. Thermal energy is obtained from this operation. Using thermo-cycles, the heat energy is converted to electrical energy. Our goal is to maximize the power and efficiency from the sun because the sun's position changes at all the day. To maximize the power from the sun.

-  Smart Schedule for Intelligent Home Appliances 2020-2021 (Graduation Project)

This project proposes a methodology for managing the operation of controllable loads in homes without the need for communication with utility companies, which allows for an improved consumer experience in the form of lower utility bills. The project has been achieved using MATLAB software.
